CME WOMEN IN RESOURCES AWARDS

Outstanding Young Woman in Resources Award

Nominees in this category must be aged 30 years or under as at 31 December 2025.

This category acknowledges an outstanding young woman recognised as an emerging leader, who has achieved significant career milestones in their career to date. It also recognises their contribution to the resources sector and broader community.

This nomination should be written to provide a broad overview of the nominee, describing their life journey and background of who they are and how they have arrived at where they are.

If selected as a finalist CME will contact the nominee's local media outlets who may be interested in running a story about their nomination.

- Aim to use between 80% and 100% of the maximum word count in each section.
- Nominations should be written as a biography, not a CV.
- Keep bullet points to a minimum as they lack context.
- Be mindful of using jargon, technical terms, or project-specific language.
- Avoid platitudes or generalised statements if they don't lead into a detailed explanation or move the story forward. Statements that the nominee was 'involved in', 'instrumental to', etc should be followed up with an explanation of how they were involved or what they did that was instrumental. Platitudes and generalisations are subjective and often not judgeable without context.

Life Journey

300 words

Describe the nominee's life journey. This section should provide background and context to the nominee's achievements and success. For example: * Family background * Education * Personal life challenges * Demonstrations of determination, resilience and personal growth

Describe the nominee's career journey, highlighting key milestones and transitions. For example: * Entry into the resources sector * Notable promotions, career advancements, and changes in responsibilities * Challenges or barriers faced and how they were overcome * Roles or projects that demonstrate growth and development.

Career Achievements

400 words

Describe the nominee's career highlights, including achievements, milestones and accomplishments. For example: * Involvement in successful projects or initiatives. * Demonstration of emerging leadership. * Continuous improvement efforts. * Awards or recognition received for professional achievements. * Innovative or resourceful problem-solving.

Contribution

400 words

Describe the nominee's contribution to the resources sector and/or community over and above the expectations of her role. In what way has the nominee given back to the sector or community? For example: - Mentoring. - Volunteering for industry-related or community initiatives. - Establishing peer support groups. - Participating in or organising workshops, seminars, or conferences. - Engaging in outreach programs to inspire and educate the next generation of women in resources - Leading or supporting charitable or social responsibility projects. - Other initiatives that support the recruitment, retention or promotion of women in your workplace or the broader industry. Please provide details and examples. For example if the nominee is a mentor, consider including how long they have been mentor, how many mentees they've had, how they have impacted their mentees etc.

All entries require the following:

1. At least one (preferably 2 but a maximum 4) high-resolution photograph of nominee.

Note that the photo you submit with the nomination will be the photo we publish throughout the entire awards process (if they are selected as a finalist). The turnaround between finalists being selected and public announcements being made is very tight so there is no opportunity to submit new photos.

Photo Specifications

- Minimum size 1MB. Please don't send us tiny photos that are only a few kb in size! They look very grainy and unprofessional when published online and in print.
- We should be able to clearly see the nominees face in at least one of the photos.
- Photos should be in colour
- The nominee should be the only person in the photograph
- No sunglasses

If possible we recommend including both a corporate photo and a site photo.

2. A brief resume (CV) of the nominee, including at least one Referee. Must be in pdf format.

A video attachment or link to support the nomination is optional.
